

2008 EMRA / FERNE Neurological Emergencies Case Conference: Special Panel Session: Tell Me One Thing About...

Learning Objectives

- Discuss ways in which a career in Emergency Medicine can be optimized through the use of simple and effective strategies for enhanced work and living

Background

A career in Emergency Medicine can be successful and rewarding, despite the fact the work is often challenging and stressful. How should a physician who is completing a residency in Emergency Medicine or a new Emergency Medicine attending pursue aspects of a career in Emergency Medicine based on the experience of those who have preceded them?

This session will ask important and relevant questions of the panelists, and will allow each panelist to only tell the audience one thing about the subject, how it impacted his or her career, and how it can make the career of each of the audience members fruitful throughout each of their lives.

Key Panel Topics

Tell me one thing about...

...the clinical practice of Emergency Medicine in the Emergency Department.

...managing the stress of ED shift work and alternating time schedules.

...medical legal risk management.

...a career in clinical Emergency Medicine.

...a career in academic Emergency Medicine.

...financial stability and success.

...insurance and taxes.

...optimizing a home/family life/personal life as an emergency physician.

...uniques aspects as a woman or minority in Emergency Medicine.

...something that the audience wants to know!!!